Nakano Takeko
aka "Tako"

Nakano Takeko

"na-kah-no" "ta-keh-ko"

Nakano specialized in the use of the naginata, a bladed polearm. During the Battle of Aizu, she led the charge against Imperial Japanese Army troops. They were stunned at the women's ferocity, and none fought harder than she did. Nakano killed five enemy opponents before taking a fatal bullet to the chest. Rather than let the enemy capture her head as a trophy, she asked her sister to cut it off and have it buried.
